PARLIAMENT OPENED.

Russian Representatives Have Ideal May Weather.

EMPEROR ON THRONE

In His Address Nicholas Urges That He Receive the Assistance of Members In Bringing an Era of Prosperity.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—An ideal May day, like a happy augury, was the greeting at the uprising of the curtain for the new act in the great historical drama, "Russia's Struggle for Liberty." The yellow imperial standard, with the double-headed eagle, flew from the winter palace. Flags by order of the police were displayed from every house, and streams of multi-colored pennants fluttered from yachts and shipping in harbors. Even passenger boats and street cars carried the Russian colors. Banks, stores, schools and some factories were clothed in honor of the occasion, but there was no general holiday, the government specifically discouraging suspension of work in industrial districts, owing to the fear that crowding of workmen into the centers of the city might provoke collisions, disorders and perhaps bloodshed.

There was something distinctly awe-inspiring about the day, with visions of chains falling from another branch of the human race, and Russian people taking up the march of modern civilization. Notwithstanding mutual distrust of government and people, there was not lacking the hope that the foundation of a sincere understanding between the emperor and his subjects would be laid strong and deep.

The city might have been in a state of siege so heavy was the array of troops. Not only were detachments of infantry, cavalry and gendarmes stationed at strategic points, but large reserves were massed in court yards and public buildings.

Early in the morning the palace square resembled a field of camps, two regiments of guards having bivouacked there all night. At daylight battalions of police took possession of all approaches to the palace for one-third of a mile, and all day no one was allowed to pass the lines without tickets. The draw of Nicholas bridge from Vaili Island was opened and the palace bridge, which rests on pontoons, was allowed to swing down the current so as to permit the imperial yachts bearing their majesties and the court from Peterhoff to pass up the river to the landing stage in front of the winter palace. A flotilla of patrol boats, several low-lying torpedo boats and a number of oared galleys cleared the river as far as the palace of all moving craft.

Like all great state functions in Russia the ceremonies began with religious services. Without halting at the winter palace the launches crossed the river and the majesties landed under the grim walls of St. Peter and St. Paul fortresses, which they entered by the imperial water terrace, driving hurriedly to the immense cathedral inside the walls, where rest the remains of the Romanoffs. There before the tombs of the emperor's ancestors the imperial family knelt for twenty minutes and made their devotions.

The emperor's reception passed off without any untoward incident. The tone of the speech from the throne was conciliatory. It expressed the emperor's wish that relief be given to the peasants in their present unfortunate condition and called on the members of parliament to put their hearts into their work and to co-operate with him in solving the present problems of Russia and in handing down a united and porsperous empire to his successor.

RANGEL CONVICTED.

Found Guilty of Homicide, but His Uncle Acquitted.

Puebla, Mex., May 10.—The sensational murder trial, the accused being Antonio Cottolene, a multi-millionaire of French descent, and his nephew, Francisco Rangel, who, on confession of murder, was imprisoned about a year ago, is concluded, the judge declaring Rangel guilty of homicide or manslaughter, and affixing a sentence of two years' imprisonment, the time being already half expired owing to his incarceration. Cottolene is absolved. The sentence is received with varying feelings.

The German colony was much interested, as the victim, Gustavo Stein, had been consul general at Oaxaca.

The defense proposes to ask for a revision of the case by the higher courts.

Returned to Peterhoff.

St. Petersburg, May 10.—Emperor and empress after leaving the palace entered a launch, passed down the river, boarded the imperial yacht Alexandria and returned to Peterhoff. The crowds on the banks of the river heartily cheered the imperial party. There were no other incidents.

AMENDMENT ADOPTED

Suggestion of Senator McLaurin Is Accepted by Senate.

SIX VOTES NEGATIVE

Measure Is to Be In Effect In Two Years From May 1 and Completely Separates Production and Transporting.

Washington, May 10.—The senate spent the greater part of Wednesday in consideration of the question of divorcing the production of coal and other commodities from their transportation, and closed that branch of its work by adopting a modified provision formally offered by Senator Elikns, but originally suggested by Senator McLaurin. There was again much sparring over parliamentary points, but there was not at any time as much confusion as on Tuesday, and when the coal question was finally closed the progress was so rapid that the first section of the rate bill was entirely disposed of before the senate adjourned. Other amendments were also adopted, but a long and short haul provision, suggested by Mr. La Follette, was voted down by practically a party vote, all but two Republicans voting against the amendment.

Mr. Culberson suggested a substitute for the modified proposition, supporting it with a speech. Senator Bailey opposed his colleague's proposition because he declared it undertook to prohibit the production of commodities to states. If congress can do that, the power of the Federal government is greater than has ever been dreamed of, he declared.

Senator Carter opposed the entire proposition.

Senator Daniel opposed the Culberson substitute.

Senator Tillman spoke of the difficulty of getting a vote, and of the slow progress that is being made.

The Culberson amendment was voted down, 11 to 62.

The question recurring to the Elkins amendment, Senator Bacon contended that it would meet the demands of the situation.

Senator Bailey found fault with the provisions, that it was not sufficiently sweeping, but said that at the same time he thought it went as far as congress was now willing to go.

A vote was then taken on the Elkins amendment, as modified by its author, and it was adopted by a vote of 67 to 6, the six negative votes being cast by Messrs. Ankney, Bukeley, Clark (Wyo.), Millard, Pettus and Warden.

The provision is in the language of the original McLaurin substitute, and is as follows: "From and after May 1, 1908, it shall be unlawful for any common carrier to transport from any state, territory or district of the United States, or to any foreign country, any article or commodity manufactured, mined or produced by it, or under its authority, or which it may own, or own in part, or in which it may have any interest, direct or indirect, except such commodities as may be necessary, or used in the conduct of its business as a common carrier."

After disposing of the question of the transportation of coal, the senate proceeded to the consideration of other amendments to the railroad rate bill, voting some down and accepting others, but acting on all practically without debate. Following are the amendments accepted:

By Mr. Elkins, requiring carriers to put in switches for shippers on reasonable terms; by Mr. Bailey, including sleeping car companies and express companies in the bill; by Mr. Warner, "Providing that it shall be the duty of carriers engaged in interstate commerce to give equally good service and like accommodations to all persons paying the same compensation for interstate transportation of passengers."

MONEY OFFERED.

Entire Membership of Legislature to Be Before Grand Jury.

Boston, May 10.—Following the defeat of the anti-bucketshop bill in the house branch of the legislature recently several representatives were alleged to have asserted outside the house that they were offered money to vote against the measure. The matter was brought to the attention of District Attorney Moran who, in turn, laid it before the grand jury, and the representatives who are said to have made the charges were called before that body. Wednesday Mr. Moran announced his intention of summoning before the grand jury the entire membership of the legislature in connection with the case. Already summons have been issued for seventy-five members.

RYAN GREAT SACHEM.

President Urged to Take Action In Behalf of Fishermen.

Waco, May 10.—Red Men selected Laredo for next place of meeting.

The following officers were elected: Joseph Ryan of San Antonio, great sachem; R. E. Tompkins of Hempstead, great senior sagamore; William Lightfoot of Thurber, junior sagamore; J. D. Slawson of Bartlett, great chief of records; C. P. Stafford of San Antonio, great keeper of wampum; James A. Breeding of Houston and Dan Sullivan of Dallas, representatives to the national council.

Grand Sachem Ryan made the following appointments: S. C. Blevins of Fort Worth, great mishinewa; P. P. Leyerdecker of Laredo, great guard of the wigwam; E. M. Fink of El Paso, great guard of the forest.

Past Sachem Charles M. Barnes proposed a resolution that Red Men's memorial day to be Nov. 30, which was adopted.

The great council sent a telegram to President Roosevelt urging prompt action in the interest of the two American fishermen held in prison at Progresso, Mexico, both of whom are Red Men.

TO LIE ON TABLE.

Gregg Resolution Will Await Information From State Department.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary Root has advised the house foreign affairs committee that the department is in receipt of a report of American consul at Progressio, Mexico, dated April 22, stating the crews of the various American fishing vessels are being taken care of and that American interests are being safeguarded. He says the department will soon be in possession of definite information, and the question whether fishing was being done within or without territorial waters is the question of fact which is being carefully investigated. He, therefore, suggests that the passage of a resolution can do no good, as definite information is not yet at hand. The committee thereupon reported favorably the Gregg resolution, with the recommendation that it lie on the table. This will enable Gregg to call it up any time he thinks advisable.

LIGHTFOOT'S DEFENSE.

Says He Had Consent of Secretary to Take Documents.

Fort Worth, May 10.—The hearing of Judge J. P. Lightfoot, office assistant attorney general, charged with contempt of court, was heard in Seventeenth district court. He said he took the books and papers of the Fort Worth Livestock Exchange with the consent of the secretary; that when they were taken they wer not in the custody of the Seventeenth district court; that to take the books and papers from the attorney general's office would be to defeat the ends of justice and the act would be used as evidence against the commission.men. He further contended that he is not a citizen of Travis county and should have been sued in Camp county.

MRS. DAVIS ILL.

It Is Feared That the Aged Lady May Not Recover.

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Southern Confederacy, is very ill of grippe at her apartments in the Hotel Gerard in West Forty-fourth street, this city. As Mrs. Davis is nearly eighty years old it is feared the attack may be fatal.

Her daughter, Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, has been sumomned from her home at Colorado Springs. Mrs. Davis has been living at the Hotel Gerard for several years, and has been frequently visited by her daughter.

CLEVELAND PRESIDES.

Former Chief Magistrate Recipient of Enthusiastic Reception.

Philadelphia, May 10.—With former President Cleveland as the presiding officer the opening meeting of the thirty-third National Conference of National Charities and Corrections was held Wednesday night in the Academy of Music. The large auditorium was filled with representatives of organizations engaged in charitable and correctional work, not only in this country, but in Canada and Europe, and the former president was given an enthusiastic welcome.

GREAT RECEIPTS.

Secretary of State Says They Are Largest In History of Texas.

Austin, May 10.—Secretary of State Shannon says the receipts in his department for April were the largest in the state's history. He Thursday deposited $129,285 in the treasury. This includes receipts of franchise tax. This is $9,000 more than for the same month last year, which was the largest up to that time.

Superintendents of express companies doing business in Texas were here Thursday and had a conference with the railroad commission regarding the new classification for handling millinery goods. It calls for a slight increase in rates.

FIERCE FIGHTING.

Pretender Is Surprised, and One Hundred Followers Slain.

Madrid, May 10.—Further fierce fighting is reported to have taken place in Morocco. The sultan's troops are said to have crossed the Muluya river, surprised the pretender's forces and killed 100 of his followers.

Behind Closed Doors.

Memphis, May 10.—Thursday's session of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was held behind closed doors. It is understood the reports of Grand Chief Engineer Stone and other officers were presented and discussed. Ladies' auxiliary also met in executive session to hear reports of officers.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Committee on Expenditures of House Given More Power.

Washington, May 10.—The agricultural department is to be investigated. The house Wednesday, by vote, empowered the committee on expenditures in the agricultural department of which Representative Littlefield of Maine is chairman, to conduct such an examination. Mr. Williams of Mississippi said that this investigation was a step in the right direction, and he hoped the other committees of the house dealing with the expenditures in the several departments would follow suit. He believed that such investigations would tend to economy in the departments, and if this be accomplished, even in a small degree, the cost of the investigation would be money well expended.

Hornblotter Resigns.

New York, May 10.—W. B. Hornblotter has resigned as a trustee of New York Life Insurance company.

REPORTS RECEIVED.

All Recommendations of Revisals Committee Are Favored.

Birmingham, Ala., May 10.—Bishop Morrison took the chair in the Southern Methodist conference Thursday.

Rev. E. Sanford of New York, secretary of interchurch committee on federation, was introduced and spoke, saying among other things, that he was sure the church could accomplish more as a united body than by working as separate bodies. He said the entire church recognized the fact that many changes would have to be made in schools and told of a plan submitted to the interdenomiational gathering at New York recently.

The revisals committee reported non-concurrence in the Kentucky memorial for uniform representation in district conferences. It also non-concurred in the memorial of J. W. Heidt, allowing any local preacher who served for as many as fifteen years to be eligible to list of claimants on superannuated fund.

Committees on publishing interests recommended that the number of official organs should be "substantially reduced in order that their excellence may be increased and their influence augmented." It further recommended that aanual conferences contiguous to each other combine in support of one paper whenever practicable. A minority report favored leaving the entire matter to annual conferences, "free from outside interference." An effort to recommit the reports failed.

The conference adopted a resolution calling for investigation of "great and terrible wrongs" in Congo Free State by a "tribunal beyond the suspicion of partiality, created by powers through whose action the Congo Free State has its being," and that our government take action for the promotion of this international inquiry.

FORD'S SALOON

WILL LEAD DOUMA

THE FAMOUS PETRUNKEVITCH NAMED FOR PRESIDENT.

Candidate of Constitutional Democrats Certain of Election to Presidency of New Russian Legislative Assembly.

St. Petersburg.—The douma, the new Russian representative legislature, which is soon to meet, will probably have as its first president M. Petrunkevitch, who is the candidate of the constitutional Democrats. "The famous Petrunkevitch" as he is called in Russia, is the man whose name for a score of years has been in the forefront of Russian liberialism. He does not look the leader he undoubtedly is.

A bearded man of 50, of medium stature, he would hardly attract a second glance in an ordinary assemblage. But upon closer examination the deep lines and piercing eyes beneath shaggy brows lend to his otherwise ordinary countenance an intelligence and force which mark him as a man among men. He comes from noble stock, an old family of the province of Chernigoff, where he was reared.

After having brilliantly finished his college career at the University of Moscow, Petrunkevitch lived for ten years upon his estate, greatly interested in the peasants, studying their life and habits and needs. At the same time he served in the zemstvo of the province and there really began what might be called his public career, but his natural inclination to liberalism and his outspoken declarations in favor of measures to educate and lift up the ignorant peasantry aroused hostility among the bureaucrats of St. Petersburg, who were early apprised of his growing influence, and he was dismissed from the zemstvo service, exiled from his native province and forbidden to live in either of the two capitals, St. Petersburg or Moscow.

M. PETRUNKEVITCH.

(Russian Leader of Constitutional Democrats Who Will Be President of First Douma.)

Then Petrunkevitch took up his residence in the government of Tver, where he acquired an estate in the district of Torjok, and at once became active in the affairs of the zemstvo of the province. It was not long before the zemstvo of Tver, under his inspiration, became renowned as the most advanced of all the zemstvos in Russia.

But it was not until after the death of Alexander III. that the incident occurred which made Petrunkevitch's name resound throughout the country. Upon the accession of Nicholas II. all the zemstvos sent addresses with felicitations for the young monarch, condolences for the loss of the late emperor and best wishes for a long and prosperous reign. The address of the zemstvo of Tver, however, was an extraordinary document.

While repeating the felicitations and formulas of the other zemstvos, it added that for the welfare of Russia the new monarch should give a constitution to his people, expressing the opinion that only thus could Russia flourish. "A continuance of the old regime," it said, "will lead the country to perdition."

This was the first time that the word constitution could be said to have been openly pronounced in Russia, and Petrunkevitch and Rodecheoff were the authors of that historic document. It and the other addresses were formally presented to the emperor November 20, 1896, when he received the deputation of nobles and zemstvoists, although actually they had been sent to the emperor in November, 1894, a month after the death of Alexander III.

Amid grand pomp all those who had presented addresses to the emperor were assembled in the magnificent Nicholas hall of the Winter palace. Petrunkevitch headed the deputation from Tver.

While thanking the zemstvos for their patriotism, the youthful emperor added that one among them—the zemstvo of Tver—had not realized his confidence. "It has permitted itself," said the emperor, his voice trembling and his eyes glancing furtively for support into the cold, hard face of Pobiedonostseff, the procurator of the holy synod, who stood at his side and who was the real author of the speech, "it has permitted itself to speak of a constitution. That, gentlemen, is a senseless dream."

Those words, reproduced in all the papers throughout Russia, drew all eyes to Petrunkevitch and made him celebrated. He became in a day the idol of the liberals.

It was not until 1904, when Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky became minister of the interior, that Petrunkevitch received permission to come to St. Petersburg, and his appearance there was coincident with the meeting of the first zemstvo congress, November 19-22, 1904, of which he was unanimously chosen president.

TO SELL LOWER CALIFORNIA

Mexico Preparing to Negotiate with Washington for Disposition of Territory.

Mexico City.—It is reported in Mexican official circles that the Mexican government is preparing to open negotiations looking to the sale of lower California to the United States. Interest in the proposition is especially keen in the territory concerned. Advices received from La Paz and other places in lower California say there will be little if any opposition to such a transfer. There are several large mining companies in the peninsula which are operated by Americans. They are especially desirous that the Stars and Stripes shall float over the territory. A Boston corporation is among the largest of the land owners. A majority of the principal industries, however, and much of the land of lower California are in the hands of foreigners. Valuable pearl fisheries, located by a British corporation. Nothing is known in Washington about the project and it is extremely doubtful if congress will agree to the purchase of any more territory for some years to come.

Lower California was discovered by Ximenes, a Spaniard, in 1532, and was a year later explored by Cortez. The region was visited by Drake as early as 1579. In 1697 the Jesuits formed establishments in the territory, built villages and missions, and civilized many of the natives. On their expulsion in 1767, the missions were carried on by the Dominicans.

The surface of the peninsula is generally mountainous, and the climate is dry and warm. It has an area of 58,328 square miles and has a length of about 790 miles. In 1895 the population was 42,245, of which almost half were Indians. The rest of the population is mostly Mexican, with a sprinkling of Americans. The annual rainfall is from 10 to 25 inches. It seldom rains except in summer.

A FLYING AUTOMOBILE.

Russian Invention Which Seeks to Solve the Problem of Aerial Navigation.

Paris.—M. Vina, an ingenious Russian, is going to attempt to accomplish what Prof. Langley and Hiram Maxim failed in—the navigation of the air by aeroplane.

Instead of launching himself from railway or boat, the Russian will try a flight in the machine shown in our illustration which was made from a photograph made by M. Branger, of this city. The machine is a combination, as will be seen, of the aeroplane and automobile. The latter is built as light as possible and is of the classic type of motor, which is worked by liquid gas. This three wheeled auto supports the wide-spread wings, together with propeller and rudder.

The wings or sails are connected by gearing with the motor, which not only propels the machine, but operates the propeller and sails.

The tricycle is started at full speed with the wings at the proper angle to make it rise by wind resistance.

No account of M. Vina's experiments has yet been given out.

New Head of Japanese Army.

Gen. Baron Kodama, who has been chosen to succeed Field Marshal Oyama as head of the Japanese army, was educated in Rutgers college, York, Pa. He has been called the "genius of the Japanese army." He is credited with having done more than any other man to plan the strategy which resulted in the Japanese victories in Manchuria, where he was Marshal Oyama's chief of staff.

Only Negro Officer.

The only negro officer of the army who is a West Pointer is Charles Young, at present on duty as military attache at Port-au-Prince, Hayti. Capt. Young entered the military academy in 1884 and was graduated in 1889.

EASILY GROWN FLOWERS.

There Is a Wealth to Choose From and a List of Those That Richly Repay.

The beginner should try to grow a few varieties of flowers and learn their habits thoroughly, for in thoroughness lies success. He should not construct a garden in fancy out of the highly colored plates in a seed catalogue and expect to produce it in reality. But he should choose his plants with regard to the place he will grow them and study their needs carefully.

There is a wealth to choose from. For early spring flowers, for instance, there are the bulbs of tulips, jonquils, narcissi, hyacinths, crocuses, snowdrops and squills. It is best to plant them in the fall; then as soon as spring begins they begin to bloom, and produce a surprising amount of color. The crocuses, snowdrops and squills may be planted in the lawn, and mowed down, for they flower very early, and will continue to bloom for several years. Jonquils and narcissi may also be left in shrubbery, or in grass, where they are not cut, and they will bloom many years. The bulbs may also be planted in the early spring—any dealer will tell how.

Sweeet peas are deservedly popular, because of their ease of culture, profusion of bloom, dainty colors and delightful fragrance. Plant them in any good garden soil, fertilize well with rich cow manure, in rows preferably running east and west. Keep the flowers well picked each day to prevent seed pods forming, for, like pansies, the vitality of the plant is impaired by the production of seeds. The seed should be planted very early in the spring, in trenches three or four inches deep, being covered over a little at first and the trenches gradually filled as the plants grow.

Few persons are acquainted with the merits of the gaillardia, or blanket flower, which is a hardy perennial and blooms in the summer in great profusion. It is about a foot high and has good stems for cutting. For an old-fashioned garden the new hybrids of French marigolds and zinnias, larkspur and fringed petunias are exceedingly beautiful and furnish a wealth of bloom for cutting.—Brooklyn Eagle.

A SHOWER FOR THE BRIDE

A Novelty Shower with Various Conveniences Are Bestowed Upon the Bride-to-Be.

The showers for brides now include nearly every article imaginable, but one of the newest things is to give a "novelty" shower. As Dame Curtsey has said before, only very near and dear friends of the bride-elect should be asked to these affairs, for the bride should not be asked to accept or people to give things that are not prompted by a heart full of love.

The affair in question was so called because each friend tried to think of some thing that the honored guest would not have and they consulted together, so there were no duplicates. There were ten guests and here is a list of what they took: A bag of silk to cover the hat while traveling and a case of postal cards, one addressed to each girl; a pad of paper and a bunch of stamped envelopes; a late magazine with the especially good articles marked; a new book greatly enjoyed by the giver.

Then there was a box of candles (one bride said she was all ready to give her first dinner party and discovered she did not have a candle in the house), a set of dinner cards ready for the names, also a dozen lace mats to go under sherbet glasses and a dozen dainty bonbon and nut holders. Then there was a box of assorted pine, hairpins and a dear little workbasket marked "For your guest-room." And one girl brought a bottle of library paste, as she said it was something she had wanted and forgotten for a month. The afternoon was the merriest one possible, for these articles were all hidden and the bride-to-be had to hunt and open each package. Tea and cocoa were served in the drawing-room with wafers and tiny biscuit.—Chicago Record-Herald.

FINE SILK-RAG CARPETS.

Use Silk and Violet "Scraps" to Make Up Into the Beautiful Woven Rugs and Portieres.

Not so many years back there was a sensible fashion of knitting, crocheting or otherwise evolving useful things out of scraps that had formerly been pieced with many stitches into quilts and comfortables.

The most useful, as well as handsomest articles so manufactured by industrious hands, were portieres; now there is a chance to go farther and make beautiful rugs of fine brocades and velvets and silks, no longer fit to do duty as gowns or wraps.

Wealthy women are having "rag" carpets made to leave as heirlooms for their children, and to descend to grand and great-grandchildren. The "rags" are rich, stiff brocades, velvet, satin and silk pieces, cut from the assortment of dinner and evening gowns, heretofore packed into cedar-lined chests and left in repose until time yellowed and ruined them.

Now these lovely fabrics are cut into half-inch strips, the ends sewed together and the whole woven into portieres or carpets that no money can buy. As such gowns are of absolutely no use to the class of women that cannot afford them new, this seems a sensible fashion; soft, richly falling hangings and rugs are easier to care for, and never go out of style, so the fad is commendable.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING.

Go at the Task in a Methodical Manner and Save Unnecessary Hard Labor.

In spring cleaning, as in many other things, forethought is the mother of success, and the careful housewife will think and plan methodically long before the actual work begins.

As a preliminary to spring cleaning it is necessary to have a thorough turn-out of all the drawers, cupboards and storage places. In a modern house these may not be as many or as ample as you would like, but still it is wonderful how much you do store up, so much so that it is quite necessary to have a turn-out twice a year.

Some people hoard much more than others. They hate to get rid of anything, saying as soon as they do give this or that away they find a use for it themselves. But you cannot keep everything, so out with them all, see what can be used, and make away with the rest.

After the drawers have been emptied they need a good clean, a wash, or maybe a dust out will do, and then reline with paper. Use white or cream paper, but better newspaper than anything that looks soiled or creased.

If your wardrobe is open in the joinings and so lets the dust in, it is well to line it throughout with glazed calico, lightly tacked to the wood at the top and bottom.

This will save all that hangs therein. The walls of cupboards should be brushed down and whitewashed if necessary, and when the shelves have been cleaned put back everything that has not been condemned as rubbish.

Soap and washing soda are necessaries that should always be bought in large quantities for the sake of economy; and of these you must have a plentiful supply; but there are other things that must be thought of such as ammonia, turpentine, whiting and furniture polish.

Provide plenty of flannel washing cloths, and silks, linen and cotton dusters. It is not necessary to use new material for these; old woolen dresses, flannel petticoats, silk handkerchiefs, linen aprons and print dresses can be utilized.

When the actual work begins it should be done in as methodical a manner as possible. Begin with the highest rooms in the house, descend in order, take halls and staircases next, and finish off with cellars and outhouses. All hangings and curtains must be well-shaken when they are taken down to free them from dust. The most delicate fabrics can be successfully washed at home by using soap jelly with a little ammonia and soft water.

Colored articles must be dried in the shade to prevent fading. It will generally be found advisable to remove trimmings, and treat them separately. The great improvement in appearance will amply repay the extra labor.

When cleaning paint use warm water and a little ammonia. Take a clean, soft flannel and wet as much as the arm can reach. Wash and wring the flannel, and rub the paint till quite clean. Dry the surface thoroughly and polish with a soft cloth.

If the paint is left damp it shows the marks of the washing and loses its polish. For very light colored paint wring a cloth out of hot water, dip it in whiting and rub the paint till quite clean. Then wash it with clean water and polish with a wash leather.

The use of ammonia at cleaning time is a great saving of labor.—Marion Harris Neil.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Where a very accurate straight line is required the material should not be torn or cut, but a thread must be drawn first to act as a guide before cutting.

In stroking gathers the needle should be held in a sloping direction and not upright, or it will pierce through the material and weaken it considerably.

If a material has a pattern running one way only care must be taken when cutting out a blouse that the two fronts do not have the pattern going in different directions.

As a rule the warp threads which run the length of the material are stronger and more firmly woven than the woof threads, which run from selvedge to selvedge. Remembering this, all parts of a bodice which are likely to stretch, such as sleeves, collars and yokes, should be cut the length of the stuff.

Sleeves which are full at the top or are fashioned with a puff should always be made over a lining for a good fit to be insured and the fullness to be kept in a proper position.

If a sleeve is made with a long cuff of lace it is best to mount it over a lining of white satin, but if a transparent effect is wanted chiffon should be used for the lining, as it makes the arm look much whiter underneath. The same rule applies to a lace yoke.

Loosely woven materials or those which are likely to fray easily are often a source of trouble to the inexperienced dresssmaker, for however much is allowed for seams the threads are apt to become unraveled almost down to the seam stitches. To remedy this the raw edge should be overcast directly the garment is cut out before any seam is sewed up. By this means the necessity for wide turnings is avoided.—Chicago Daily News.

Glycerin and Indigestion.

If you suffer from indigestion, try the effect of a teaspoonful of pure glycerin taken after each meal. This will often cure an obstinate case of indigestion of long standing in about a fortnight. Mix the glycerin with half a wineglassful of water.

MAKING AN IMPRESSION.

"Paul, do you know Prof. Loring's daughter?" asked the aspiring freshman, as he lathered his face and flourished his razor.

The long junior grinned paternally. "I know her; yes," he answered. "We all do. The question is, Does she know us?"

"Meaning?"

"Meaning that she has a merry habit of forgetting. She's rather important, herself, you know, and there are a good many of us. I think I've been introduced to that girl ten times since I came here to college, but it's only since I've been a junior that she recognizes me when we meet."

"Well, I'm no junior, but she'll recognize me, all right! I danced with her three times last night, and—" He paused to hold up his upper lip taut while he finished shaving it. Then he modestly smiled into the mirror. "I flatter myself I made an impression," he concluded.

The long junior's grin was more than paternal now—it was grandfatherly. But he said not a word, which nettled the aspiring freshman greatly.

As if that had not been enough, when the two were crossing the campus together an hour later, they came upon Miss Loring, who threw her whole soul into the bow she gave to the long junior and saved nothing at all for the freshman at his side.

"See?" said the junior, gently, after they had passed. "That's the way. A year or so from now, if you meet her repeatedly, she'll begin to remember you. You have to grow up with the country, my boy. No other way."

One morning, about a week later, Edith Gardner, the charming daughter of a teacher in the English department, telephoned the aspiring freshman, inviting him to an informal gathering at her house that evening and indicating that he was to have the special honor of escorting Miss Loring.

The receiver clicked and the aspiring freshman thought it over. But he was nobody's simpleton, if he was a freshman.

He waited until within an hour of the time set for the party; then he called up Miss Loring by 'phone, and in a hoarse voice, introduced himself as "Mr. Haberbusch," explaining at the same time that he had been delegated to act as her escort for the evening.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, sweetly. "I understood that I was to go with Mr. Channing."

"Channing!" was the offended echo. "Who's he?"

She hesitated. "Why, I think his first name is Reuben—Reuben Channing." Now, as it happened, this was the full name of the aspiring freshman.

"Reuben!" he repeated, with a laugh. "What's he? A farmer?"

She gave back the laugh with hearty appreciation. "No—a freshman."

"Well, Miss Gardner called me up and asked me to be your escort. I don't intend that Reuben shall cheat me out of the privilege," said "Haberbusch." "What time shall I call?"

She told him merrily, and he was on hand at the appointed time. To his delight, when she saw him in overcoat, with collar turned up, she greeted him trustingly as "Mr. Haberbusch," and, just as they reached Miss Gardner's after a pleasant walk together, she volunteered the touching assurance that, though she had expected to come with Mr. Channing, she was sure she did not regret the change.

Then they entered the house and she was spirited away upstairs, while Channing, in a lower room, disposed of his wraps and bloomed forth in evening clothes. It was more than he had dared hope, though, when, a few minutes later, she floated down the stairway and came smiling to where he stood in the parlor entrance.

"Why, Mr. Channing, you're here, after all!" she said, cordially. "I understood that I was to come with you, and at the last minute Miss Gardner sent Mr. Haberbusch for me."

Channing darted a suspicious glance at her. Her face was innocent. "Haberbusch—who's he?" he asked.

She looked started for an instant; then caught herself. "Dreadful name, isn't it?" she laughed.

"And yet you don't regret the change—from Reuben?"

Her lips parted in astonishment, but just there Miss Gardner broke in with greetings and welcome.

"Edith Gardner," demanded Miss Loring, in the first pause, "where's that Mr. Haberbusch I came with?"

"What do you mean?" was the answer. "You came with Mr. Channing, child!" Then, as the next guest claimed Miss Gardner's attention, Miss Loring turned on the aspiring freshman with a bewildered expression which rapidly changed to one of wrath.

But Reuben was of good old Puritan stock and he did not quail. The rest of the roomful knew that these two immediately became engrossed in a warm discussion, which was apparently taken up whenever they found themselves together during the evening.

That was all—except for a sequel which happened next day. The long junior came upon Miss Loring, near one of the college buildings, in such earnest conversation with the aspiring freshman that neither saw the junior pass.

"Well!" he said to himself. "That youngster has made an impression after all. I wonder how?"—Chicago Daily News.

LITTLE VISITS WITH "UNCLE BY"

Out Hum at Hick'ry Crick.

I've been out hum to Hick'ry Crick, an' things is movin' there;
They've built a bran new opry house an fenced th' county fair.
Bill Willers he has gone and put some red paint on his store,
An' Haskins, not to be outdid, has gone an spread some more!

They've shingled all the Baptist roof, an' sot out hitchin' posts,
An' graded down old Scroggin's hill, whar onct I used to coast!
Th' Union house has put in steam, an' Hiram Jinks, b'jing,
Has bought hisself a new cash box thet opens when ye ring!

By George, I tell you things is smart out hum at Hick'ry Crick,
With Heine Brant's new omnybus all painted red an' slick!
Th' parsonage has got a porch, th' fact'ry's runnin' nights,
An' thar be hintin's goin' on erbout electric lights!

Th' mayor sez he thinks they's ile, ef only it wuz struck;
An' maybe when they're drillin' down, they'll strike some gold fer luck!
Yes, things is moving smart out there, an' yit it's restful, too.
This livin' in th' city way somehow it gits me blue!

Sometimes I think that I want made t' pine an' be plumb sick
A-wishin' I was 'way back thar—out hum, in Hick'ry Crick!

NEWSPAPERS THE BEST.

Nearly every day some firm corporation or association announces that after giving all other agencies a fair trial it finds that newspapers furnish the best and most economical means for obtaining publicity for an article of merchandise or a business. The following from the Raleigh News and Observer adds another link to the long chain of evidence supporting the newspaper as an advertising medium:

"Richmond merchants have decided to spend all all their advertising money in newspapers. The tendency is that way everywhere because business men know that honest statements in a newspaper of character will do more good than broadcast circulars or other similar mediums and schemes, often read only by the idle. It is the busy man that reads newspapers. Idlers, as a rule, have no money and business men do have it."

The Richmond merchants are but falling in line with the policy adopted by large advertisers of the north who have spent millions in all sorts of advertising and after years of experience and watching of results have come to the conclusion that the newspaper is the best means to secure public attention. —Paris Advocate.

Bryan's loyal support and the well directed and untiring efforts of the active promoters have placed the Texas Woman's College upon firm ground. The president of the college is happily able to go before the people of the state in his field work with something tangible to offer for their patronage and support, and Dr. Geo. B. Butler is not a man who works without results.

The Kentucky snow storm was not sufficiently heavy to alarm the colonels regarding the mint crop.

ADVANTAGES FOR TECHNICAL CLASS.

Mr. William E. Curtis of the Chicago Record-Herald, in writing upon the opportunities for employment in Mexico, has the following to say in regard to the facilities afforded for young men trained in technical subjects. We believe this will be of interest to many of our readers. It is here reproduced for their information:

There is an opportunity in Mexico for electrical, mining, mechanical, civil, locomotive and stationary engineers, and persons with a technical education are very much in demand. The development of the mineral and mechanical industries is very rapid. There is a great deal of railroad building. Thousands of manufactories are being erected in different parts of the country; thousands of mines require engineering skill to make them pay. Electric lighting and power plants are being established in every town, and thus far the technical schools which the Government has established have not been able to produce enough skilled men to meet the demand. Young men of the upper classes are beginning to study the applied sciences more or less seriously; a few pupils of the peon class from the public schools are appearing at the doors of the technical institutions every year, but it will be a long time before they are competent to meet the situation.

There is no room here for doctors, druggists, lawyers, school teachers, or other professional people. There is a law school and a medical school in almost every Mexican city, and they turn out as large corps of graduates every year, as similar schools in the United States. The professions are overcrowded. The tendency of the educated Mexican is to seek a clerical position. He prefers indoor emoloyment, and the applicants are so much in excess of the vacancies that the salaries are small. Stenographers are paid from $25 to $50 in silver, which is equal to just half that amount in our money; bookkepers, cashiers and men in simular position get from $100 to $150 silver, or half of these amounts in gold.

Next to engineers, railway men, machinists and skilled mechanics have the best show for employment. But ordinary mechanics and workmen should not come here under any circumstances. The wages of skilled mechanics are less than they are in the United States, although they seem larger, because the figures are given in silver. A locomotive engineer or machinist, for example, is paid from $6 to $8 a day, which means $3 and $4 in American money, and the highest class of manual labor is paid $2 in silver, which is only one dollar in gold.

The baseball team left Tuesday on the last trip for the year. They play four games while gone, one at Georgetown with the Southwestern University May 9, three at Austin, one with the Deaf and Dumb Institute May 10, and two with the State University May 11 and 12. They will return Sunday, May 13, and finish up the season by playing Texas Christian University the following Monday and Tuesday here at college. The team has a record that everyone is proud of and no doubt they will add a few more feathers to their caps on this trip. Out of fifteen games this season they have won ten. This is not counting the two games played here outside of the schedule in which they won from the Kansas University and lost with the Houston league by a score of 1 to 0. The team has been well managed and in all have played good ball.—The Battalion.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

At a meeting Monday night, the Glee Club decided to give its final concert on Friday night, May 18, at the College chapel. The members are making every effort to make this concert the crowning event of the year. Many new numbers have been added to the program. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.—The Battalion.

HERBERT A. SPRAGUE, IMPERSONATOR

Lyceum Attraction, Opera House, Wednesday, May 16.

On account of the illness of W. C. Frost, who was to have closed the lyceum course on May 4, the bureau has substituted for this attraction the world-famed impersonator, Herbert A. Sprague. He comes under a guarantee to please the most critical. He will appear in "Rip Van Winkle" or "Merchant of Venice," or will give selections from both. The ability to represent in turn a half dozen characters or more in a play or story in one evening without the benefit of stage accessories or change of costume, to impersonate the grave and the gay, the dignified and the flippant, the learned and the simple, the morbid and the humorous, and to make such characters stand out as though represented by a distinct individual, born and trained with the characters presented, requires talent of a very high order. All this Mr. Sprague has done before hundreds of audiences to the delight of all who have heard him.

Don't forget the date, May 16th. Tickets will be on sale at Haswell's Book Store Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

General admission will be 50 cents. A special rate will be made school children. tf

SPRING AILMENTS COMMON.

More Cases of Spring Languor, etc., than in Former Years.

Physcians and druggists say there are more cases of illness in Bryan this Spring than in former years. Perhaps there is not much serious sickness, but Spring languor, loss of appetite, headaches, sleeplessness, back-aches, weakness and debility, indigestion and other ills that result from indigestion or an overworked stomach, are more common than they have been for some years past.

This has resulted in an unusual demand for Mi-o-na stomach tablets at E. J. Jenkins. Before he felt that he could recommend this remedy, he tested it rigidly in many cases of heart-burn, indigestion, wind on the stomach, debility, and other troubles that result from a weakened digestion, with the greatest success.

In fact, Mi-o-na has been so uniformly successful in curing all stomach troubles that E. J. Jenkins gives a signed guarantee with every 50 cent box to refund the money if it does not cure.

The Eagle is requested to state that the entertainment announced for the benefit of the U. D. C. convention fund has been unavoidably postponed. Date will be announced later.

Woolen Will Wear

IN ALL WEATHERS

Argue as they will, one fact remains: Cotton adulterated cloth will neither keep its shape nor wear under any conditions. Pure woolen cloth will. Our Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes are made of pure woolens, tested by the wool test, which is the beginning of all

Stein-Bloch Clothes

The only reason why cotton is substituted for wool in mercerized fabrics is to cheapen the goods. A house is no stronger than its foundation. So with clothes. Cheap fabrics mean cheap clothes; and no matter how shrewdly they are tailored, they will be untrustworthy. Stein-Bloch employ no mercerized or cotton adulterated fabrics. Their goods are pure caustic-tested wool, and the clothes made from them wear and keep their shape.

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test consists of a boiling solution of water and caustic potash, the chemical action of which dissolves wool but not cotton. The two samples here shown were originally of the same length. the test proved one to be all wool, consuming the part immersed and leaving only the blackened edge. The other proved to be an adulteration containing a large per cent of mercerized cotton.

Stein-Bloch Suits

$17.50 to $25.00

Kirschbaum Suits

$10.00 $12.50 $15.00

Kirschbaum Clothing Plant is the largest in the world, and these clothes from $10.00 to $15.00 have no equal. Give us a look, we can please you.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says:—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

MESSENGERS GATHER.

Attendance at Southern Baptist Convention Promises to Be Large.

Chattanooga, May 10.—The indications are that the attendance at the Southern Baptist convention will reach at least 5,000.

The Missionary union held a session Thursday morning. The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. H. A. Winters of Tennessee, and responded to by Mrs. C. F. Wintzsigler of the District of Columbia. The address of the president, Mrs. J. A. Barker of Virginia, followed. Reports were read by the corresponding secretary, Miss A. W. Armstrong of Maryland, and the treasurer, Miss Ricker, of Maryland.

The Baptist Young People's union met Thursday morning with Dr. L. A. Dawson of Tuscaloosa, Ala., presiding. The society is very well represented. Educational conference met at the First Methodist Episcopal church. Leading representatives of education in the south were present and participated in the exercises.

The board of trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary held a business meeting.

CONFER AT AUSTIN.

Assistant Adjutant General of Louisiana Sees Hulen.

Austin, May 10.—Colonel Fleuel, assistant adjutant general of Louisiana, conferred with Adjutant General Hulen relative to the attendance of Louisiana troops at the state encampment here this summer with soldiers from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. Colonel Fleuel says Louisiana will send a large detachment.

Kansas City, May 10.—At the annual meting here of the stockholders of the Kansas City Southern railway the board of directors was increased from thirteen to fifteen and Hugo Blumenthal and A. J. Miller, bankers of New York City, were elected as the new directors. The old directors were re-elected. The directors then re-elected the old officers.

Joseph Leiter Suspended.

Chicago, May 10.—Announcement was made Thursday that Joseph Leiter, who carried a spectacular corner in wheat eight years ago, had been suspended from membership on the Chicago Board of Trade. Leiter's suspension, it is said, was because of complaint from a trader that a bill for $8,000 for services rendered the corner was still unpaid.

Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

Paris, Tex., May 10.—Callie Collins, a negress, died from dose of carbolic acid.

An Elder Brother.

In a case in the orphans' court of an eastern city one of the principal witnesses was asked if he had any brothers or sisters.

"I had a brother," he replied, "but he died 150 years ago."

"What? A hundred and fifty years ago?" echoed the judge, with an implied rebuke for a possible jest.

"Yes. I am telling you the truth. My father was married at nineteen years of age. Within the year a son was born to him, who shortly afterward died. Becoming a widower before he was thirty, my father married again at the age of seventy-five. I was born next year. I am at present ninety-four years old. If you will make the necessary calculation by adding my age, ninety-four, to the number fifty-six, which is the difference between seventy-five and nineteen, the ages of my father at the time of his respective marriages, the result will be exactly 150. So it is just a century and a half since my brother died."

Let the Children Play.

It is too often true of the unhappy children who are forced to rise too early in their classes that they are conceited all the forenoon of life and stupid all its afternoon. The vigor and freshness which should have been stored up for the purposes of the hard struggle for existence in practical life have been washed out of them by precocious mental debauchery—by gluttony and lesson bibbing. Their faculties are worn out by the strain put upon their callow brains, and they are demoralized by worthless childish triumphs before the real work of life begins. I have no compassion for sloth, but youth has more need for intellectual rest than age, and the cheerfulness, the tenacity of purpose, the power of work, which make many a successful man what he is, must often be placed to the credit not of his hours of industry, but to that of his hours of idleness in boyhood.—Huxley.

WILL PAY LOSSES.

Insurance Companies to Take This Step In Immediate Future.

San Francisco, May 10.—Financial interest is centered in the announcement made by the insurance companies that in the immediate future they would pay losses of the fire sufferers.

It is believed that most of the money will be put into general circulation, and when it is distributed will relieve the people of San Francisco as no other means could.

SUTRO BATHS, SAN FRANCISCO.

To a great extent the work of demolishing walls and clearing away debris has been postponed because of the doubt regarding the attitude of the insurance companies would take.

FEDERATION PLAN.

Proposes That Commissioners Be Appointed to Bring This About.

Birmingham, Ala., May 10.—At Wednesday's session of the Southern Methodist conference a plan of benediction was introduced in a resolution offered by James Anderson and others. It proposes that the southern conference appoint commissioners with a view of raising a federal council to be composed of like commissioners from the Methodist Episcopal church, the purpose of which council shall be to prepare and submit to the ensuing general conference of the two churches, respectively, such a plan of federation as shall divide all American Episcopal Methodists into not less than three administrative bodies.

It is proposed that two bishops, eight traveling elders and five laymen shall constitute the representatives from the Southern church. The resolution was referred to the committee on federation.

Rev. John R. Nelson of the Northwest Texas conference conducted devotional exercises. Resolutions of sorrow were adopted with announcement of the death of Rev. J. C. Berryman of Farmington, Mo. He was a delegate to the conference of 1844.

The committee on itinerary reported non-concurrence in memorials from various conferences, asking that the authority to license local preachers be transferred from the district to the quarterly conference. The address of the bishops had suggested the change in which the committee non-concurred. The colportage committee reported adversely on the memorial from West Texas conference for the establishment of a tract society.

The same committee recommended that the book committee provide a series of doctrinal and biographical books adapted to the use of children in the home. The special committee named to consider and report concerning the new statement of Methodist faith and doctrine recommended the passage of the resolution proposed, with the understanding that the preparation of this new statement shall be undertaken by the commission only when such co-operation on the part of other representative bodies of Methodism shall have been secured as shall give to the statement prepared an ecumenical character, and make it an expression of world-wide Methodism. It is proposed to have the report of the committee ready in four years.

The unusual scene was presented in Birmingham Wednesday night of a full-blooded African addressing at the First Methodist Episcopal church, an audience which was so large that standing room in the great building was ata premium. Rev. S. S. Sheppard, missionary to the Congo Free State, and fraternal delegate to the Methodist Episcopal general conference from the African Methodist church, was the speaker.

GREENFIELD GUILTY.

Confesses That He Embezzled Large Amount From Employers.

Philadelphia, May 10.—Charged with having embezzled upwards of $100,000 from his employers, Edwin S. Greenfield, head clerk of the banking and brokerage firm of Harrison Snyder & Son of this city, was arrested here and held in $10,000 bail. In default of the bail he was sent to the county prison. Greenfield made a full confession, and is doing everything possible to assist the firm in straightening out its tangled books.

Following the public announcement of the embezzlement creditors filed a petition in bankruptcy against George E. Snyder, trading as Harrison Snyder & Son, in the United States court, and Judge McPherson appointed Charles N. Volum as receiver.

H followed with an address on the "Need of Legislation to Restrict the number of appointments by Local Agents."

APRIL EXPORTS.

Month Proved a Record Breaker For City of Galveston.

Galveston, May 10.—April proved to be a record breaker in the value of foreign exports from the port of Galveston, having exceeded all records for that month by nearly 40 per cent. Total value of exports for April amounted to $10,516,471, which, added to the values recorded for the previous fiscal year 1905-1906, which makes a grand total for ten months of $154,516,916, just $28,394,574 in excess of the total value of foreign exports from the port of Galveston for the full twelve months of the year 1904-1905, and $9,518,928 in excess of the total values of any fiscal year in the history of the port.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Two Men Shot and Killed One Mile East of Conroe, Tex.

Conroe, Tex., May 10.—Steve and John Beason were both shot and killed at Beach, one mile east of here, Wednesday.

The gun used was a double-barreled shotgun, each receiving a load of buckshot in the breast and dying in a few minutes. Neither man spoke after being shot. After the shooting Harry Bendy came in and surrendered to the sheriff, and was given an examining trial and admitted to bail in $300 in each case.

Harry Bendy was foreman of the mill at Beach, and the Beasons were track and wood foremen.
